Hi Westside families!

In art this year we are starting to wrap up our very first projects. We all got started with painting this year and it's been so much fun.

5K classes read the book "The Dot" and have been making their own dot masterpieces using crayon, marker, color sticks, paint, and stamps! I'm starting to get them hung up on the walls and they really make the school look fantastic.

1st grade learned all about the "Primary Colors" and created their very own Primary Monster. All of our monsters are so silly, funny, cute and KIND.

2ND GRADE CONTINUED THEIR COLOR WHEEL KNOWLEDGE FROM LAST YEAR! WE USED THE PRIMARY COLORS ON OUR PROJECT TO START OFF, BUT THEN WE EVEN MIXED THE PRIMARY COLORS TOGETHER TO MAKE SECONDARY COLORS! NOW WE ARE GIVING THEM THE FINISHING TOUCH BY ADDING SOME OUTLINING.

3rd grade continued their learning of the color wheel by making an entire color wheel! They made every single color by using only the 3 Primary Colors! There are 12 colors on the color wheel which means they made 9 of them all by themselves. Amazing! Now they are going to finish these up by writing "I Am" statements on their colors. I can't wait to see them all finished.

4th grade learned all about how to make Tints and Shades while painting. They each chose a color to start with and then added white to it to create a "tint" and added black to it to create a "shade". The result is a Monochromatic painting. They got to paint anything they wanted and really got to show their creativity.

I love teaching your sweet kiddos,

Improving Motivation to Do Homework

Homework can be the bane of a young child's existence. Most of the time, children want to be outside playing with friends or doing other activities they enjoy. Because school can be stressful for a child, coming home is like the end of a workday for an adult. Children simply want to unwind and be a part of a family experience, or do things they enjoy. However, just because they don't enjoy doing homework doesn't mean they can't get through it successfully. By making homework fun as a parent, you'll be able to encourage and help build homework habits for the future, ensuring your child is getting the most from their education.

Show that You Care

The reason homework may feel like such a chore to many children is that they find no enjoyment or fulfillment from doing it. Also, when they're doing their homework, they're probably doing it alone. By actively taking an interest in the work your child is doing (e.g., assisting them with any problems or frustrations they have), you have the great opportunity to make it a fun experience. It's unrealistic to expect that your child will be overjoyed to do their homework alone in their room. If they have homework, ask them if they would like any help with it. If they want to do it alone, bring them healthy snacks and give them a break after each hour of work. This will help them keep their mind active and focused as they concentrate on any given task.

Homework Enjoyment

By encouraging homework and making it fun, you can also improve how your child behaves in their day-to-day life. Homework can be a very stressful experience, especially when a child is having difficulty with the material. Even if you're having trouble understanding what your child was assigned to do, make the most of it. By making it fun and exciting and getting yourself involved, you'll be able to ensure that future homework assignments are an opportunity for you to spend time together and help your child succeed at school.

REMEMBER:

- Even after making homework fun, it still may be a struggle for your child.
- Do your best to help your child and only arrange for a tutor as a last resort.
- Let them know that once homework is complete, they have all the free time they want before bed.
